CONCEPT NOTE

Human Rights being the birth rights are inherent in all the individuals irrespective of their caste, creed, religion, sex and nationality. These rights are essential for all the individuals as they are consonant with their freedom and dignity and are conducive to physical, moral, social and spiritual welfare, and so there is a need to protect them in the interest of the humanity. Thus Human Rights are the basic rights. By virtue of their being human, human beings possess certain basic and inalienable rights which are commonly known as Human Rights. To pursue this goal the National governments have taken measures to protect the rights of the individuals by incorporating them in their Constitutions to give binding effect. In addition to this, nongovernmental organizations on national, regional and international level are working sincerely in bringing the cases of violations of Human Rights into limelight and finding out ways and means to prevent their occurrence.

At present there is a need to create awareness and to bring out its importance regardless the statutes of the countries with their variety of historical, cultural and religious backgrounds. The duty to promote and protect all Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms lies up on the governments, people, you and me

The seminar is oriented in an interdisciplinary manner bringing experts from various fields together to discuss about the recent trends and issues which are related to the different dimensions of Human Rights. The gaps on Human Rights policing and the solutions thereto will be tried to be pondered upon in the seminar. This seminar on Human Rights will act as a platform for all the Academicians, Professionals and other intellectuals from all over the country to come together and discuss various measures for protection and implementation of Human Rights for the well being of the country in general and human beings in particular. It is rightly said that no one can change the world in one day but everyone can do their part. This is a small initiative from our side to make the world a better place to live in.
