ABOUT THE SEMINAR

The role of women in society has undergone a profound transformation over the past few decades. Historically marginalized and limited by traditional gender roles, women today are asserting their agency in various spheres: from politics and business to technology, art, and social activism. While significant progress has been made, new challenges have also emerged, particularly in the context of global political shifts, economic disparities, and the accelerating pace of technological advancements. This seminar, Women in the Contemporary Social Realm: New Circumstances and Emerging Strategies, seeks to explore how women are navigating the complexities of the present age and developing new strategies to combat the multifaceted challenges they face. Through discussions, presentations, and case studies, we aim to unpack the evolving landscape for women and examine innovative approaches being employed by women across various sectors to assert their rights, elevate their status, and create lasting change. The modern social realm is marked by rapid technological advancement, shifting political landscapes, and evolving societal norms. The ongoing fight for gender equality, economic justice, reproductive rights, and social inclusion remains pressing, even as more women take on leadership roles in diverse fields.

ABOUT US

Department of Social Work was one of the foremost departments to be established in this prestigious Women's University in 1983. The department has grown extensively over the four decades, with a well-designed curriculum for Masters Programmes in Social Work, rigorous field work geared towards acquiring practice-based knowledge and skills, lab sessions for skill development, intervention based research for dissertations to highlight evidence based practice, and faculty with national and international repute who are engaged in numerous research projects. The department offers programmes in BSW, MSW and Ph.D.

The objective is to create a platform for dialogue and exchange, where experts, activists, and participants can discuss both the opportunities that women have in contemporary society and the systemic barriers that remain.
